

Start SMART Career Launch & Early Career Program

This program was developed to help the many college graduates who are job hopping, frustrated with what they are doing and who are concerned about their transition from school to work. It is also for the juniors and seniors trying to figure out what type of internships and jobs to look for. The goal of this program is to identify strengths and talents that point the way to success and satisfaction to help you define how you will contribute in the workplace. Job titles today can be confusing or misleading. If you can identify and talk about what you want to do in real terms, it makes it easier to uncover opportunities that fit for you. These insights make it much easier to describe what you want when networking for internships or job openings.

Our process helps you successfully position yourself in a resume, an interview or during strategic career moves. It can also save you from taking a position that is not a good fit. We are not a job placement or job search organization. We help with the critically important planning phase that often gets overlooked.

This program is for you if you are:

- ✓ Unsure what internship or work to look for with your major
- ✓ Considering graduate school
- ✓ Unhappy with your career direction or are floundering

Our team of credentialed and experienced professionals are dedicated to helping people make decisions about career choices and educational programs to support them. We partner with you and care about your happiness and success.

About Us

We were established, and remain subsidized, by the not for profit Ball Foundation whose mission is to study aptitudes and to use that information to help people discover and develop their potential. As a research organization, we are committed to the highest professional standards and practice. To facilitate this ongoing research, we offer an optional Research Membership. A membership entitles you to additional savings on our subsidized programs and unlimited* free follow up consultations. In exchange, we ask that you complete two short surveys annually. Your information will continue to support our outcome research and studies on aptitudes and careers paths. With a rapidly changing workplace, this information will help others in the future.

* Up to 2 consultations annually.

The Start SMART Career Launch and Early Career Program is designed for busy young adults looking for a smart way to define their career goals. The program is customizable. It can be done entirely on line, or on the phone, and can incorporate our most comprehensive program for those looking for additional support.
